

I don't know is honest. And a service failure.

The phrase that fixes it. Swipe →

THE PROBLEM

DEAD END

I don't know ends
the conversation.

The guest walks away still holding the problem.

SAY THIS

1

That's a good question — let me find out for you right now.

Slow. Warm. Certain. The guest hears ownership, not ignorance.

THEN

2

Actually find out. And come back.

Even if the answer is small, the return visit is the service.

3

Safety questions?
Don't improvise.

Say: I will get the duty manager for you immediately. Knowing when to hand over is also service.

REMEMBER THIS

“

The guest doesn't need you to know everything.
They need you to own
the finding out.

DO ONE THING

Retire I don't know from your desk this week.

Which phrase do you hear too often at work? Comment below. Follow Inspire Ambitions for Gulf hospitality careers built on evidence. Fictional service examples.